6th Sunday of Easter

On this sixth Sunday of Easter, we celebrate our Lord's universal love. He has no favorites. Rather, he freely shares his love and spirit with everyone who welcomes him. The depth of this love is expressed through Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit. Our first reading recounts Cornelius and his family's conversion and subsequent reception of the Holy Spirit. As Peter put it, this demonstrates that "God does not have any favorite." In other words, God's salvation and love are global. He wants everyone who truly believes in him to be saved and participate in him through the Holy Spirit.

The second reading and today's gospel from John remind us of Christ's love for us. They encourage us to continue in this love, and to love one another as Christ loves us. We were made in the image of God, and we must demonstrate this love. When we love, we actually embody and act like God. When we love truly, we demonstrate that the spirit of God is inside us. In the gospel Jesus said: "What I command you, is to love one another." As a command, it indicates that we have no other alternative but to love one another. The reasoning is straightforward. We are products of love. This love comes from God to Christ, then from Christ to us. It also flows from God to our parents, and then from them to us. This is why Christ says to us today, "As the Father has loved me, so have I loved you." So, we have no excuse not to share it with others. We are going to continue the chain.

The love we're talking about here transcends passion and sentiment. It's "sacrificial love." Sacrificial love is a firm dedication to helping and appreciating people unreservedly. It is always prepared to offer rather than receive. Sacrificial love celebrates the truth and never fails. That love is fearless in the face of accusation. Let us express gratitude to God, who "has shown his salvation to the nations" as we celebrate and obey this tremendous commandment of love.
